

D'yan Forest, who has shared the stage with Jerry Seinfeld, Amy Schumer and Joan Rivers, has just been awarded the Guinness World Records title for being the oldest working female comedian in the world.

Forest, who is 88 and has recently performed at Joe's Pub, Caroline's, and Gotham, is taking her one woman show, "Swinging on the Seine" to Paris.

She will perform a series of shows at the Parisian hot spot the New York Comedy Club during the month of December.

In her new book "I Did It My Ways," she talks about marrying a nun and how she went from being born Diana Shulman in Massachusetts to becoming a French chanteuse named D'yan Forest.
